EDWARD JOSEPH DERWINSKI
SECRETARY OF VETERAN AFFAIRS

WASHINGTON — Edward J. Derwinski, the man chosen by President Bush to head the new Department of Veterans Affairs, moved from the right wing toward the political center of the Republican party in the course of a 24-year career in Congress representing a suburban Chicago district.

He was not deeply involved in legislation affecting veterans, although he is a World War II veteran, having served as an Army infantryman in the Pacific theater.

When he arrived in Congress in 1959, at the age of 32, he was an aggressive anti-Communist, denouncing State Department officials as "a gang of fuzzy-headed idiots." But he has worked at the State Department for almost six years. First, as counselor, he was a general troubleshooter and adviser to Secretary of State George P. Schultz.

Push for Arms Sales

Since March 1987, he has been the Under Secretary of State for Security Assistance, Science and Technology. In that position, he has used his contacts on Capitol Hill to win support for arms sales to friendly countries. He has supervised efforts to restrict the export of advanced technology to Soviet bloc countries and was in charge of Operation Staunch, the American program to prevent arms sales to Iran.

He has also coordinated United States Government activities related to international sports events like the Olympics in Seoul, South Korea, this year.

Representative G.V. (Sonny) Montgomery, the Mississippi Democrat, who heads the Committee on Veterans Affairs, said Mr. Derwinski had not been prominent in House debates on legislation affecting veterans. But he said Mr. Derwinski was "a good choice" to run the veterans agency, which has an annual budget of $28 billion and 245,000 employees.

The new department will inherit the work of the Veterans Administration, which manages 172 hospitals and 112 cemeteries around the country. By giving the department Cabinet status, Mr. Montgomery said, "We hoped to improve care for veterans." The Secretary should be "a strong spokesman for veterans," and one of his first jobs will be to defend veterans programs from the knife of the White House budget cutters, Mr. Montgomery said.

COMMANDERS REPORT

While we haven't had an executive board meeting since the last Quan there continues to be activity with some of the committees. I am pleased to report the membership is subscribing to the "Gold Card" with enthusiasm. Secretary Elmer Long and Treasurer John Kost have a lot of credit for their work in getting the "Gold Cards" out.

Of course the Convention Committee is preparing their final report for the next board meeting in New Orleans. At this meeting, final plans will be approved by the Executive Board. All members are invited to attend especially those in the New Orleans area.

Our National Service Director John Emerick has been preparing his VA section and the wives program for the convention. John and Ken Colley are working on a plan to try to aid the widows, especially those whose income has them below the poverty level.

With the changes in Washington both at the national level and within the Veterans Administration, there will be a lot for our Washington Rep. Paul Rutter to report.

John Crago, the publicity chairman has performed his task well. He has got the message to anyone who could have an influence on our convention.

My hat's off to all who are making A.D.B.C. the respected organization it is and will continue in the future.

When he left Congress, squeezed out by redistricting in Illinois, Mr. Derwinski was the ranking Republican on the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee. He played a large role in passing legislation to overhaul the Civil Service in 1978. He resisted the Carter Administration's effort to curtail the advantages in hiring and promotion given to Federal employees who had served in the armed forces.

An Upset Victory

Edward Joseph Derwinski was born in Chicago on Sept. 15, 1926, the son of Casimir Ignatius and Sophia Derwinski. He received a bachelor's degree in history from Loyola University in Chicago and was on his way to a career as a savings and loan executive when he ran for the Illinois State House of Representatives and won an upset victory. He served there in 1957 and 1958, when he ran for Congress. In 1964, he was the Illinois state chairman in Barry Goldwater's unsuccessful campaign for the Presidency.

"SNOW BIRDS"
We thank those who send their winter and summer addresses to the Quan. The problem is there are some members we only have one or the other. Please cooperate so we can be sure to keep you on our active mailing list.

For those who may have missed reading in the August issue, we have made a separate mailing list for summer and winter addresses for those who move around. Again if you have a friend who moves back and forth, have them send me their addresses.

Let’s cut down on the Quan returns, we are receiving over 100 every issue. If you plan to change either address, please send the changes as soon as you know.

INFO
The December issue was mailed to 5358 persons at a cost of .084 each or $450.07 postage.

GOLD CARD

With this issue of the Quan we are 25% of our stated goal when this program started about seven months ago. We think this is great and we feel sure other members will come aboard. As time goes on, it is probably easier now to part with $100.00 than it might be five or ten years from now.

One only needs to look at the death notices in the Quan to realize how the health of the members is failing, yet I think even though we may pass on yet we want to see A.D.B.D. be a viable organization, able to stay independent and function as we do today. The odd part the expenses for 300 members 20 years from now will cost as much or more than today’s expenses. As to worry about seven months ago. We think this is great and we feel sure other members will come aboard. As time goes on, it is probably easier now to part with $100.00 than it might be five or ten years from now.

Japanese-American Pay Delay Feared

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sponsors of a law to compensate Japanese-Americans who were forced to live in internment camps during World War II say it would take 60 years to come up with reparations under the spending plan proposed by President Reagan.

"Unless Congress approves the authorized maximum amount ... many of the eligible recipients may die before receiving their token compensation," Sen. Spark Matsunaga, D-Hawaii, said.

Matsunaga and the other lawmakers who sponsored the 1988 law said they would press the House and Senate budget committees to vastly increase the $20 million in the president’s 1990 budget for the reparations.

Up to $500 million can be appropriated in any single year until $1.2 billion has been paid out.

No payments have been made under the law, which promises $20,000 each to an estimated 60,000 survivors of internment camps, where Americans of Japanese ancestry were forced to live from 1942 to 1946.

Matsunaga called the Reagan proposal "woefully inadequate" and expressed hope that the new Congress "will be sympathetic to our request."

The senator said some of the survivors "are in their 80s and 90s and have been waiting more than 40 years for the apology and token compensation provided by the 1988 act."
The law requires the oldest survivors be paid first.

Officials at the Office of Management and Budget had no comment.

Editorial Comment: Those of you who feel as I do should get busy and deluge your congressmen and senators especially if they serve on the Appropriations Committee, with letters however short telling them your feelings. It appears the way to slow the "rape" of the treasury is by not budgeting enough money to fund the program.

We have a duty to the war veterans, the aged and the handicapped which must be provided first before we help those who don’t deserve it. Enough has been written on the treatment and advantages these people had over the brutal treatment handed out by their relatives in the Philippines and Japan.

Survivors Recall Palawan Atrocities

WASHINGTON (AP) — It was 44 years ago, but to those who were there the horrible but largely unknown atrocity at Palawan in the Philippines remains a vivid memory.

"Today we speak for those who endured the unendurable," said Dan Crowley, 67, of Simsbury, Conn., who organized a memorial service in honor of 140 American prisoners of war massacred by Japanese forces on Dec. 14, 1944. "It's a cleansing process, that these men will be remembered by their fellow Americans."

Glenn McDole, 67, a deputy sheriff in Polk County, Iowa, was one of 11 men to escape the Palawan massacre, during which Japanese troops lured the Americans into air raid holes, doused them with gasoline and burned them to death.

McDole was among the first of the POWs to arrive at the island. Japanese forces used the prisoners to carve an air strip out of the jungle.

Prisoners were beaten daily. Captured fugitives were beheaded. Tiny rations of rice left them emaciated, many weighing less than 100 pounds. Their beards grew down to their exposed ribs.

"I remember every bit of it," said McDole, who underwent an appendectomy without any anesthesia during his captivity.

The morning of the 14th, McDole remembers overhearing Japanese soldiers talking. He said the Japanese believed an American convoy was headed toward Palawan.

After two years of hell, the POWs spirits were finally lifted.

"Get to your air raid trenches, the Americans are coming," McDole recalled his captors ordering. "Without a doubt, we thought we were going to be liberated," he said.

The air raid siren was sounded. The men crammed into the trenches.

The next thing McDole recalled seeing was a platoon of Japanese troops entering the camp compound, some carrying buckets, others torches.

"I couldn't believe what was going to happen. They threw gasoline in the trenches, then the torches came in and it was just an explosion," he said.

"My God, they're killing everybody!" the prisoners shouted as McDole watched some of his comrades, knowing they were about to die, run out of the trenches and grab on to Japanese soldiers to take them to death.

Some of the Americans had dug a tunnel, thinking they could escape if U.S. troops bombed the island.

McDole and about a handful of others made it out of the trenches, rolled down a 60-foot bank and tried to run to the channel to swim away. Many were shot down. McDole, pinned down by machine gun fire, crawled under a garbage pile and stayed there through the night.

INFORMATION PLEASE

Dear Sirs:

I lost a brother in World War II that was in the same area of operations that your group appears to have been. He was at Clark Air Force Base when war broke out, was in the Bataan Death March, and died in Japanese Prison Camp O'Donnell of dysentery.

I am enclosing a picture of T-3 Walter Thomas Olinger, born in Glasgow, Montana, August 18, 1922, deceased June 8, 1942, at Camp O'Donnell.

If any of you served with him, I would be very grateful if you would drop me a note with any information you might be able to supply about his service.

Most sincerely,

Emma Olinger Boyd
2510 Terrace Drive
Billings, MT 59102

THANKS

We wish to thank Tony Bilek, 508 S. Grove Ave., Rantoul, IL 61866, for his generous contribution to honor two of his deceased buddies: Charles Schmidt of the 27th Material Sqdn. who died Nov. 26, 1988 and Russell Gerleman of the 20th Pursuit who died Dec. 7, 1984. This is a good gesture to honor your deceased buddies and it helps to keep the ADBC solvent.

The next day, he made it to a nearby cave and stayed there until nightfall, when he swam five miles to another island. The next day, trying to swim across an inlet, he beame entangled in a fish trap, eventually saved by a passing boat.

Crowley, McDole and others lament the fact that the massacre of Palawan is known by few Americans, but they said the simple memorial service will help heal the wounds of the living and remember the victims.

"We didn't come here with hatred in our hearts," Crowley told about 40 people who attended the service in the shadow of the Washington Monument. "We want to remember those who paid the ultimate price."

VA ANNOUNCES PLANS FOR SMOKE-FREE HOSPITALS

As part of the national effort to achieve a smoke-free society by the year 2000, the Veterans Administration is announcing its intent to establish a smoke-free environment in acute-care sections of all VA hospitals and outpatient clinics. The policy is expected to be implemented by mid-1989.

In announcing the proposed policy, VA's Chief Medical Director John A. Gronvall, M.D., said, "As the largest single health care provider in the nation, VA's Department of Medicine and Surgery should make every effort to create an environment that will promote the health and well-being of patients, visitors and employees."

Patients in long-term care wards or facilities, such as nursing homes, domiciliaries, spinal-cord injury units and psychiatric units, will be exempt. The policy, however, will apply to all Department of Medicine and Surgery employees, as well as other VA employees located at medical center sites.

Surgeon General C. Everett Koop, expressing his strong support for the proposal, said that all VA hospital employees, patients and visitors will benefit from the policy. In a letter to the agency, Koop said, "Your action to eliminate smoking in the VA hospitals is an invaluable contribution to reducing smoking prevalence in this country.

VA INSURANCE DIVIDEND PAYOUT TO TOP BILLION MARK

The Veterans Administration will pay more than $1 billion worth of dividends in 1989 to veterans holding active VA life insurance policies — the largest amount in the 70-year history of the program.

The record payout will be sent automatically to some 2.9 million policyholders on the anniversary date of their policies in the form of dividend checks or one of five other payment options they selected.

VA Administrator Thomas K. Turnage said the dividend — which exceeds the 1988 payment by $44.6 million — reflects both favorable claims experience and high yields on trust funds invested in U.S. Government securities.

Government life insurance policies were issued to veterans of World Wars I and II and the Korean Conflict from 1919 to 1986. Only those policies that have been kept in force receive annual dividend distributions. No application from individual policyholders is necessary.

The largest group receiving 1989 payments will be almost 2.5 million veterans of World War II with National Service Life Insurance (prefix "V") who each receive an average of $350.

ARE YOUR DUES PAID?
Third Star For Bulkeley

John D. Bulkeley became a Vice Admiral on August 25, 1988. The "frocking" ceremony was held in the Chief of Naval Operations Carlisle Trost's office at the Pentagon.

The promotion, at Bulkeley's insistence, was awarded in a simple but dignified manner with only a few guests present. The CNO placed a new epaulette with three stars on one shoulder and Mrs. Alice Bulkeley attached the other.

A second ceremony followed VADM Bulkeley received his third Distinguished Service Medal, the highest decoration for noncombat achievement. Excerpts from the citation read:

Vice Admiral Bulkeley's operational experience, courage, and initiative brought honors to the Navy and victory to his Nation... he performed the greatest service as the President, Board of Inspection and Survey for the past 21 years. With an unequaled appreciation for the challenges faced by sailors serving in our men-of-war, he devoted his life to ensuring that they are supported by the best, safest, and most survivable ships. Vice Admiral Bulkeley's selfless efforts guaranteed the Navy's capacity to conduct prompt sustained combat operations at sea and significantly upgraded warfighting readiness.

By his distinctive performance, meticulous attention to detail, and inspiring devotion to duty, Vice Admiral Bulkeley reflected great credit upon himself and upheld the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service.

In August 1941 Bulkeley took command of Motor Torpedo Boat Squadron Three. Prior to this command he served as Commander of Submarine Chaser Squadron One.

Bulkeley's role in the safe transport of General Douglas MacArthur and his staff from Corregidor and Bataan, Philippine Islands is well known. He is identified with the breakthrough of Japanese lines leading to MacArthur's subsequent command of Southwest Pacific Armed Forces.

The Admiral holds these awards and citations for service in defense of the Philippines: The Medal of Honor, the Navy Cross, the Army Distinguished Service Cross with Oak Leaf Cluster, the Army Silver Star Medal, the Army Distinguished Unit Badge, the Republic of the Philippines Distinguished Conduct Star, the Purple Heart Medal.

He was awarded the Combat Legion of Merit as well as the Croix de Guerre with Star for service with PT squadrons and mine sweepers in the spearhead invasion of the Cherbourg Side to turn back German Forces. The Croix de Guerre was personally presented by General de Gaulle.

Other awards and recognition have followed Bulkeley throughout his 60-year naval career. He has held many commands in wartime and peacetime. The February 1964 confrontation with Castro and the government of Cuba made headlines when Bulkeley cut the water pipes to our Navy base at Guantanamo Bay.

In 1967 he became President of INSURV serving in that capacity until September retirement. His immediate recall as an advisor to the CNO and Sec-Nav is but one indication of the contributions he has made to his country.

The following paragraph from William B. Breuer's forthcoming biography of the Admiral clearly contrasts Bulkeley's humility against a renowned and much decorated career: "John Bulkeley, American History's most decorated warrior, took his elevation to three-star rank philosophically. 'Promotions and medals are nice,' he declared. 'But really counts is the inner satisfaction of knowing that I have contributed toward preserving the peace by helping to keep America militarily strong in a volatile and dangerous world. That, to me, is the real payoff.'

Dear Mr. Vater,

I am writing in reference to a phone call I made to you last week about a photo I have of my father, General Wainwright and 3 other men, unknown. According to my mother this photo was published in the Chit-Chat or Quan, sometime in late 1946 or 1947; that it was "something about EX POWs". General Wainwright is front left seated and my father is pictured center rear. My parents were stationed in San Antonio, Lackland Airforce Base at this time.

This is all the information I have about my father.

He was a part of the Bataan Death March and spent 42 months as a POW ending at Mukden, Manchuria.

Mr. Vater would you put this photo in the next issue of Quan? I would really like to know who, what, why, anything. It would add one more little bit about a man that I loved and thought was wonderful. My father died just over eleven years ago.

Anyone that would like to contact me can write or call:

I read in the current issue of the Air Force magazine that you will be holding a reunion for those who fought on Bataan and Corregidor.

It is for this reason that I write to you with hopes that you can help me contact a very special friend that I met many years ago while in Japan. I don't remember the friend's first name, but I can tell you this much about him. To me he was: SSgt. Knapp, and he served on Bataan. I believe he was a search light operator with an Army unit. He managed to live through the hell, and he ended up being a prisoner at Sendai, Japan. When I was a very young Sergeant with the 9th Corp Headquarters, I met SSgt. Knapp. He had been a prisoner not from the 9th Corp headquarters. When he arrived at our unit, I was assigned as his sponsor, and I shall never forget the many experiences he told me of Bataan and later being a prisoner.

Carbondale Widow Shares Account of Husband's World War II Survival

By Brenda Sprague
Southern Illinoisan Correspondent

Lt. Col. Willard L. Money was a hero, but his heroism was unnoticed more often than not. He chose not to talk about it much, but Money was on the first plane shot down in World War II shortly after Pearl Harbor was bombed on Dec. 7, 1941.

He recorded his wartime actions in his diary, now kept by his widow, Elizabeth Money of Carbondale.

Money was a 20-year-old U.S. Air Corps PFC assigned to Clark Field, Philippines, when he boarded a B-17 as a gunner on a routine training flight with Capt. Colin Kelly. After hearing about the attack on Pearl Harbor, the crew was able to find and sink a heavy cruiser, the Ashigara. This action was documented with a total of three bombs on board the B-17. One bomb scored a direct hit down the smokestack. The plane was chased and hit by Japanese fighters following its bombing raid.

One of the men on board the plane was killed by the gunfire. The B-17 did not have tail guns and could not return fire or shake the enemy planes. Kelly gave the order to bail out. After the plane crashed, Kelly's body was found nearby. Kelly was awarded the Medal of Honor for his action. Money and four others survived the crash, landing on an island. Money remained on that island for four years during the war and consistently reported the actions of the Japanese who also occupied the island.

For these activities Money was awarded the Distinguished Flying Cross, Bronze Star Medal with two oak leaf clusters, Air Force Commendation Medal with one oak leaf cluster, Presidential Unit Citation with one oak leaf cluster, and a Presidential Unit Citation from the Philippines.

He was also awarded the American Defense Service Medal with one star, Asiatic-Pacific Theatre Ribbon with one star, Philippine Island Defense Ribbon with one star, Philippine Island Liberation Ribbon with one star, Philippines Independence ribbon, World War II victory medal, Air Force Reserve medal, and the Air Force Longevity Service award with four oak leaf clusters.

Survival had not been easy. "He had eaten monkey and grasshoppers . . . everything he could to stay alive," Elizabeth Money said, reading from her husband's diary. "He had so many parasites when he came home he was in the Leatherman Hospital in San Francisco for a long time," Mrs. Money said. "He came back in 1945, just before Christmas. I met him when he arrived and we were married then."

Willard and Elizabeth Money have two children, five grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

The family had visited Carbondale to fish while Money was stationed at Scott Air Force Base near Belleville. They found a 77-acre farm south of Carbondale and decided it would make a good retirement home. Money retired from the service in 1962. He died July 22, 1988.

Many of the entries in Money's diary are only a paragraph hurriedly written. Often the entries lack detail; this was done in case the diary fell into enemy hands.

"Oh, they had a reward out for him," Mrs. Money said. "They would have loved to get their hands on him. If they had, they would have cut him into little pieces."

Money continued to work with the Philippines underground until the islands were freed in 1945. He served under the command of Col. Wendell W. Fertig, the famous guerrilla leader of World War II. After leaving the island he was nurtured back to health in the U.S. and returned to active duty in Japan and later the Philippines.

During his last 10 years of service, Money held various command and staff positions in Air Force communications and electronics. He had designed some parts for the radio he used on the island," Mrs. Money said. "He was good at electronics." And, as his diary discloses, he was also good at the art of survival.

FLORIDA CHAPTER

The Florida Chapter had a very successful meeting at the Pagoda Motel, Ormond Beach, Fl on the 14th, 15th and 16th of October. We had our Quan party on Friday night, lots to eat and drink, a good time was had by all. Over seventy persons attended, lots of war stories. Our banquet was perfect for our speaker was a Philippine doctor, although she was only three when the war started, she remembers the horror in Cebu City where she lived, she had to leave to escape death. After she completed her training, she was assigned to VA Hospitals in Florida. She always tried to take care of ADLC personnel, whom she treated like VIP's. Her speech was very emotional, there wasn't a dry eye in the group. The Doctor presently is at the VA Outpatients clinic at New Port Richie, FL, where she takes care of our guys. The banquet was a great success. Gerald (polokol) Okonski made lots of door prizes, with those that the defenders donated, almost everyone won a prize. Although there was a northeast blowing in off the ocean, the temperature was up in the eighty's. Should I say more.

The Florida Chapter has changed their meeting from twice a year to once a year. The meeting will be held in the second week in October. Our meeting for 1989 will be held at the Pagoda Motel, Ormond Beach, FL. A chapter newsletter will be sent out to all ADLC personnel that reside in Florida in July 1989. Anyone having questions, please write Secretary Florida Chapter, John Aldrich, 4430 Pompano Drive, Tampa, FL.

COMPENSATION FOR DISABLED VETERANS INCREASED

Veterans Administration compensation payments for disabled veterans will be increased by 4.1 percent effective with checks issued Jan. 1, 1989, the VA has announced.

VA Administrator Thomas K. Turner said that the cost-of-living increase will benefit some 2.2 million veterans and their families, plus some 345,000 survivors of service members or veterans who died from service-connected causes.

The increase is part of the Veterans' Benefits Improvement Act of 1988, signed by President Reagan on November 18.

The law also calls for establishment of a new Court of Veterans Appeals, revises procedures of the VA's Board of Veterans Appeals and assists Agent Orange claimants.

In other provisions of the law:

The newly established Court of Veterans Appeals, whose principal office will be located in Washington, D.C., will hear appeals of decisions of the Board of Veterans Appeals. The court will review cases in which a notice of disagreement to Board of Veterans Appeals decisions is filed with the VA after Nov. 18, 1989.

The Court will consist of a chief judge and two to six associate judges appointed to 15-year terms by the President. The VA will be represented before the Court by the VA General Counsel.

The law authorizes reasonable attorney fees for representation after a Board of Veterans Appeals decision. In certain contingency-fee cases, fees are limited to 20 percent of the value of awards of past-due monetary benefits. Provision is made for challenging legal fees found to be excessive or unreasonable.

Concerning the Board of Veterans Appeals, both the findings and the reasons and bases for the findings must be mailed by the Board to the claimant under the new law.

Free basic health care services to veterans exposed to Agent Orange or radiation also are extended by the law, from Sept. 30, 1989 to Dec. 31, 1990. Eligible for this care are veterans who during active duty may have been exposed to a herbicide or defoliant while serving in Vietnam, or to ionizing radiation from the testing of a nuclear device or the occupation of Hiroshima or Nagasaki following World War II. Since 1981, when the original law was enacted, the VA has provided veterans with 2.5 million free outpatient visits and admitted 23,000 to free inpatient hospital care.

SAUL RUBENSTEIN

Longtime Marin resident Saul Rubenstein, a survivor of the Bataan Death March, died unexpectedly Thursday, Nov. 17, 1988, at his home in San Rafael. He was 69.

Mr. Rubenstein was a native of Brooklyn, N.Y. He lived in Marin for 28 years.

During World War II, he endured the Bataan Death March, a 65-mile walk described by many American and Filipino veterans as one of the worst atrocities of the war in the Pacific.

"I still have nightmares about the march," Rubenstein said in an interview years ago with the Marin Independent Journal. "But now I wake up from them. Then, it was a hideous nightmare, awake or asleep."

In 1967, Mr. Rubenstein returned to the Philippines to re-enact part of the walk over the dusty road winding from Mariveles on the southern-most tip of the Bataan Peninsula, north beside Manila Bay.

Mr. Rubenstein was a prisoner of war for four years.

He later was secretary-treasurer of the Western States Chapter of the American Defenders of Bataan and Corregidor. He was to be commander of the 500-member group next year.

He also was a member of the Masonic Order.

For 10 years, he was in charge of the philatelic window at the San Rafael post office.

His wife, Shirley Rubenstein of San Rafael, said he had "a great sense of humor, a wonderful disposition — and a strong will to survive."

STECKEL

Matthew Steckel, Jr., who was held in a Japanese war camp for 41 months during World War II, died Thursday, Oct. 6, 1988, at home in Charlotte after a lengthy illness. He was 71.

Born in Rochester, Mr. Steckel graduated from Madison High School and entered the Army when he was 17. After serving in China in 1947, then briefly in the United States, he was sent to the Philippines.

On the night of Dec. 7, 1941, he was working in the code room of a Signal Corps outfit, Mr. Steckel said in a 1952 interview.

"We were expecting a high priority message on the wire," he said. "We knew it would be an all-out alert, although we didn't know exactly why. In fact, I broke down the code which announced the Honolulu disaster."

He was put in an advanced echelon unit which traveled up the main island of Luzon to meet the invading Japanese. But his outfit became scattered and he was herded into one of the many groups that started a 100-mile walk, known as the "Death March."

"More than 15,000 men were captured there," he recalled. He said he was given one bowl of rice and a canteen cup of water — "but only after the first 80 hours."

The marchers were beaten several times during the march. "They'd beat you for the slightest thing, sometimes for fun or just to keep in practice," he said. His front teeth were knocked out when he was struck with the butt of a rifle.

Mr. Steckel was beaten for his sense of humor and breaking ranks for getting water from a well along the route. "I was lucky," he said. "Most guys got shot when they tried it."

He eventually became ill and was sent to die in a room under a hospital's bamboo floor. He recovered, but spent nearly two years in work camps on Luzon. He had only his shoes and shorts to wear.

Mrs. Steckel was forced to march in the Japanese "victory march" in Yokohama. "We marched from Yokohama to Tokyo so the people would think we were freshly captured troops," he said. "That was more brutal than the "Death March" because dogs would bite us, people would spit on us and throw rotten tomatoes. One woman kicked me in the groin and when I doubled over in pain, a guard beat me because I couldn't walk."

Then he was shipped to Manchuria to work in a factory until he was freed 10 days after the war ended. He entered the service weighing 180 pounds and was discharged from the camp weighing about 98 pounds. He said he often ate snakes and monkeys to stay alive.

After the war, Mr. Steckel was hospitalized in the U.S. for 14 months. He decided to leave the military after he recovered and studied to become an architect.

But he re-enlisted in 1947. He was sent back to Japan and Korea, working as a road and bridge engineer, his wife, the former Agnes Erbland, said.

Mr. Steckel returned to New York in 1951 and worked as an Army recruiter in Rochester, Hornell and Ithaca for 1½ years, then continued his work as an Army engineer in Germany, San Francisco and Alaska.

Mr. Steckel retired from the Army as a major sergeant in 1962 and immediately began working for Eastman Kodak Co., as a security officer. He retired from Kodak in 1980.

His wife said Mr. Steckel enjoyed his retirement by working at home in his workshop. He especially enjoyed making wooden butterflies and dominoes.

"He enjoyed woodworking," she said. "He was quite talented with his hands."

Besides his wife, Mr. Steckel is survived by a daughter, Patricia Oster; a son, Matthew T. Steckel; five grandchildren; sisters June McCall and Marion Lanthum; several nieces and nephews.

ALBERT J. TYBUR

Albert J. Tybur, HMC, USN, Ret., died Dec. 10, 1988. He was a Pharmacists Mate First Class, U.S. Navy, attached to the 4th Regiment, USMC. Captured on Corregidor May 6, 1942. Held in Bilibid, Manila, P.I. On 13 December 1944, he boarded the Hellship Oryoku Maru with 1600 other POW's. The ship was hit by planes from the U.S.S. Hornet on the 14th and sunk on the 15th. Survivors were transferred to San Fernando, Pampanga by truck and by boxcar to the Lingayen Gulf where they boarded another ship for Takao, Formosa. At Takao survivors were hit again by planes. Put aboard a third ship about 300 survivors arrived in Joji, Kyushu, Japan. Tybur was sent to Camp 17 Omura, Japan. Repatriated from there at the war's end.

He is survived by his wife, Maerita, two sons and two daughters.

MELVIN McCOY

I am writing to tell you the sad news of my father, Melvyn McCoy's death, in early December. I knew him as a man of high spirits and active intelligence, who enjoyed life enormously. He loved the Navy and took pride in his military service. His friends and family also meant a lot to him, as we to us. We shall miss him greatly.

Sincerely,

Annie Soule

RA DM McCoy will be remembered as the leader of the first mass escape from the Davao prison of war camp in Mindanao and as the last voice to be heard from the Philippines when Corregidor was surrendered and the radio of the 16th Naval District fell silent.

Dear sir,

I write to you because of a hobby of mine, with which you can help me. Since 1985 I'm corresponding with World War II veterans, all over the world. I'm very interested in those people's war time career. I'm not so much interested in all the arms used in the war, but in what the veterans have to tell me about what happened to them and how it affected them. Of course, I can read books (I do) but personal contacts with veterans means much, much more to me. I'm proud to say that some of the veterans I correspond with are my friends. So I hope you understand what I would like to know from the veterans. They tell me just the things they want me to know, if it is the truth, that is, about their combat experiences. I'm not especially seeking for heroic stories, I just want to know what happened in the war and to each soldier individual. If somebody got heroic stories, that's alright with me, but everybody who saw combat is more than welcome to write and tell me about it. I'm truly interested in what those people have to tell me.

Now, I would like to ask you if you could put a sort of call in your publication for your members who saw combat in WWII and would like to tell me about it. Everybody is welcome to write. If people have problems with writing, maybe they can put things onto tape.

In the hope you can place a call.

Yours truly,

Stevie Oudisoon

PS: I'm 18 years old and still in school.

War Crimes Documents
Reveal Japanese Government
Agreed To Abide by Geneva Convention of 1929 on Prisoners of War

Documents introduced at the War Crimes Trials in Manila by the United States government, reveals its efforts to have the Japanese government abide by the Geneva Prisoner of War Convention of 1929. Although the Japanese government did not sign the treaty, it agreed to the principles of the treaty.

On December 18, 1941, the United States government notified the Japanese government that the United States government would abide by the Geneva Prisoner of War Convention of 1929. On February 4, 1942, the Japanese government notified the Swiss government that it was “strictly observing” the Geneva Red Cross Convention as a signatory state. Second, by the Japanese government would apply “mutatis mutandis” (with necessary changes having been made) provisions of that convention to American prisoners of war in its power.

Thereafter, there were 140 communications between the United States government and the Japanese government relative to the treatment of prisoners of war. A summary of these communications and dates thereof is as follows:

Serial No.
1. U.S. 18 Dec 41

   B. Invites Japanese apply provisions both conventions and asks Japanese express intention.
2. U.S. 13 Jan 42
   A. U.S. will follow Red Cross proposal regarding exchange lists of POWs, wounded, and civilian internees, on reciprocal basis.
   B. What are Japanese intentions on this point?
   C. U.S. will set up POW and Alien Enemy Information Bureau.
   D. Reiterates request for Japanese intention regarding POW Convention.
3. U.S. 20 Jan 42
   A. U.S. will permit visits by representatives of protecting powers to civilian internees.
   B. Will Japanese reciprocate and extend POW Convention to civilian internees?
4. U.S. 26 Jan 42
   A. Reiterates request for Japanese intention regarding civilian internees.
5. Japan 4 Feb 42
   A. Japanese Government informs “first, Japan is strictly observing Geneva Red Cross Convention as a signatory state. Second, although not bound by the Geneva Convention relative treatment prisoners of war Japan will apply mutatis mutandis provisions of that law to American prisoners of war in its power.”
6. U.S. 7 Feb 42
   A. Does preceding communication cover civilian internees by use of “mutatis mutandis”?
   B. Asks Japanese permission for Swiss visits to POW and civilian internment camps.

(Tokyo Raid — Death Penalty — Tani Note)
A. Tani note does not answer U.S. request for specific data on Tokyo raid airmen.

B. Tani note substance: (a) Japan will try by court-martial "and to punish severely as enemies of humanity these members of crews of enemy planes...who are shown after inquiry, guilty of cruel and inhuman acts..." This measure...is based upon the supreme moral, which endeavors to limit to a minimum the horrors of war by respect for humanity.
(b) Claims Tokyo raid hit non-military installations and purposely killed children. Also claims crew members "declared that their act was natural and represented no discredit on their country."
(c) Continues: "Such persons are unpardonable as enemies of humanity. The Imperial Government cannot treat such guilty persons as prisoners of war."
(d) States death penalty was pronounced but applied only to a few of crew members.
(e) Alleges Japanese will treat as POWs crews of planes "who do not commit cruel or inhuman acts."

49. Japan 23 Feb 43
A. Repeats Tani Note.

50. Japan 23 Feb 43
A. Refers to Serial No. 26, gives exact text of Japanese Staff message regarding captured airmen, stating that any who are "found to have committed cruel and inhuman acts shall be tried before a military court and suffer death or other severe penalty."

51. Japan 23 Feb 43
A. Repetition of substance of Tani Note.

52. U.S. 1 Mar 43

A. U.S. requests report on POWs being sent to Thailand.

54. Japan 24 Mar 43
A. Refuses to give names and sentences of Tokyo raid aviators, on ground "not treated as prisoners of war. Consequently Japanese Government does not intend to divulge names or state sentences imposed or permit visits to them."

55. Japan 3 Apr 43
A. Refers Serial No. 39, quotes basic provisions law March 9, 1943 modifying law March 1, 1905: ‘In group escape leader subject death penalty solitary confinement minimum 10 yrs. or imprisonment.” Full text requested.

56. U.S. 5 Apr 43
A. Complete statement of U.S. position on treatment of Tokyo raid aviators, specifies violations of Convention, intent to hold responsible Japanese Government officials, and to punish them on conclusion of war.

57. Japan 4 June 43
A. Refers to Serial No. 38. Weasel reply, no specific answers to our categorical charges. Uses "special circumstances prevailing in areas which have until recently been fields of battle" as excuse. Makes distinction between "persons accused of crime" and "wartime internees." Former will be treated "in accordance with the relevant domestic laws." Will not apply Geneva Convention to "persons accused or suspected of crime and detained according to the Japanese law."

58. U.S. 6 Jul 43
A. Refers to Serial No. 57. Notes that Japanese will report on each instance of maltreatment of U.S. nationals.

B. Repeats request for permission to Swiss to visit POW camps, and reminds Japanese that Article 7 of Geneva Convention requires prompt evacuation of POWs from combat zone.

73. Japan 11 May 44 (Memo from Spanish Embassy)
A. Note from Japanese Government answering Serial Nos. 64, 65.

C. Japanese intend "on purely humanitarian grounds to apply mutatis in present war provision 1929 Convention treatment Prisoners of War to American Prisoners of War within areas under Japanese administration." "As regards civilian internees, no international agreement exists except that expression of desire contained in final protocol to 1929 Convention. In present war Japanese government have seen fit to enumerate certain articles of Convention and to demand their absolute application as if Japanese government by above-mentioned expression of intention has admitted obligation to observe provisions of Convention as party thereto."

D. Japan will not recognize neutral representation of enemy internees, and will not permit visits to POW or internee camps "in view of need of military operations."

FEBRUARY, 1989 — 13
E. By intent to apply Convention "it is meant provisions of Convention will be applied with modifications necessary in order conform with provisions of existing law and regulations of country and with requirements of actual situations as it develops." Same interpretation applies to civilians. (At this point pp 4, 5 Spanish Memo are missing. These pages apparently continue discussion of Japanese position on POW Convention.)
F. Japan followed own POW regulations as in Serial No. 62.
G. Remainder of 27 page answer is denials, evasions, and counter charges.

CAN YOU HELP
Dear Mr. Vater,

I have always wanted to find out about a neighbor of mine who was sent to the Philippines when WWII started. He was in the National Guard. He also was supposed to have been in the Bataan Death March. He went by two names: Leon Elliott or Leon Eliopolus (sp.?). He lived some of the time in Oakland and the rest of the time in Silinas, CA.
I would appreciate any information that you may have on this person.

Sincerely yours,
Mrs. Olive M. Phillips

INFORMATION WANTED
My purpose in writing is the off chance that you may have known (or know someone who did) my wife's brother who died on Corregidor about April 1942. His name — Walter B. Dmohoski
ASN 33 005 316
Pvt., 454th Ordnance Company
Aviation (B)
He sailed on the President Coolidge November 1941 to the Philippines via Hawaii. He had trained in various southern camps and never got home.
His family (mother, four sisters, one younger brother) wrote from November 1941 to February 1942, but by that time all his mail was returned with the annotation "Service suspended." His family was never told anything until the war ended and his mother received a letter indicating he had died on Corregidor. His mother received a form card from General Marshall expressing condolences. Later in his life they decided not to have his remains returned to the US — he is buried at Ft. McKinley, Philippines. This decision was probably based on his health at the time, because in 1944 her younger son was wounded at Salerno while serving with Darby's Rangers.

If you know of any survivors who served on Bataan whom we could write, it would be appreciated. Also, if your organization has a periodic newsletter perhaps this query about Walter could be inserted.

Sincerely,
Lawrence H. Boteler
